Oregon Air National Guard Special Landings Expand During Trial Period PORTLAND INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT (MAY 1 – OCTOBER 31, 2017)

The Oregon Air National Guard will expand use of a special landing procedure at Portland International Airport during a six-month trial period beginning May 1.

Called a continuous descent overhead approach, the tactical maneuver increases pilot safety when landing in actual combat situations, and lands aircraft more efficiently through a faster landing procedure.

During the trial period, community members are invited to share any observations with the Port of Portland's Noise Management.
