PORTLAND INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT CROSSWIND RUNWAY IN USE (APRIL 7, 2017)

Due to strong winds from the south, most aircraft operating at Portland International Airport are landing and departing using the crosswind runway (Runway 21). This runway is oriented from north to south. Aircraft using the crosswind runway will be arriving over Vancouver communities north of PDX, and departing aircraft will fly over NE Portland neighborhoods, south of PDX.

Use of the crosswind runway will remain in effect until winds change back to the typical east/west direction.

Thank you for your patience during these temporary conditions.
